Thanks to CareerArc, we did not renew our contract with the job boards we had relied on for years. CareerArc got us more qualified candidates in less time and at a price that was unbeatable.

Current employees coming off contract, looking for challenges in new locations, or seeking opportunities for internal advancement use our Twitter, Facebook, and LinkedIn communications to stay informed of internal job postings. With CareerArc's recruiting platform, we see internal and external candidates returning to our sites to check the newest openings. The job map has been particularly effective in keeping the attention of our mobile, remote workforce on opportunities within the Leonardo DRS jobs network.

So much of our early and continued success is attributable to our client success manager (CSM) who stays on top of current trends and always comes to the table with new solutions and ideas. The tech integration was fantastic through and through. It felt like we were up and running almost immediately. When hiring for particularly challenging positions, our recruiting team regularly engages with our CSM as a strategic resource. Our CSM is our guru. She identifies which industry hashtags to use, and she gets us in the right conversations that target the people we want. She knows how to get our name heard and our brand seen.

Before CareerArc, we used a generic job board that had our positions sitting right beside multiple listings from our competitors. What CareerArc offers is just light years beyond that model. The candidate experience they help us deliver has shrunk our time-to-fill, cost-per-hire, and turnover. We've come a full 180.

Most importantly, CareerArc helped us cultivate and strengthen brand loyalty, which is particularly tough to do in our industry ... our partnership with CareerArc has elevated our brand engagement and awareness in both U.S. and international operations, higher than we had ever thought possible.
